SOUTHGATE PRESENTS
SUNDAY MARKET
Meet the Makers

After more than two decades positioned around the Arts Centre, the Sunday Market is embarking on a new journey; moving next door to the Southgate!

The familiar sights and sounds that have defined the market for years will now find a new backdrop, all undercover, over 3 levels; complemented by some of Melbourne's long standing and much-loved cafes and restaurants.

With echoes of nostalgia and the anticipation of discovery, the relocation of the Sunday Market opens doors to new opportunities and connections for both vendors and visitors alike, ensuring that its legacy of community, commerce, and creativity continues to thrive in its new home.

The Sunday Market at Southgate showcases the local artisans of Melbourne and will also feature weekly entertainment, to drive visitors into the centre! Come and meet the makers and artists face-to-face and learn about their products and what inspires their work.

Products

Southgate is wanting to continue to celebrate the Sunday Market being the only Makers Market in Melbourne, as such, all products sold by stallholders at The Sunday Market MUST be made by the applicant (which is you, the stallholder) personally, and made in Australia. No exceptions. Applications to trade products that are design only, clearly imported, factory manufactured, purchased from a wholesaler or that we consider inappropriate for display at the market (e.g. discriminatory or offensive material) will not be considered.

In order to ensure there is always an interesting and varied selection of products on sale at our market we will carefully manage the number of stallholders selling similar products.

Allocation of trading dates and sites

The Sunday Market is curated to ensure the market is presented with an interesting and varied mix of product each Sunday.

Once you have been accepted to trade at the Sunday Market at Southgate, trading dates will be allocated in advance. Stallholder's product and advised availability in context with all other stallholders will be taken into consideration when allocating trading dates. There is no guarantee you will be allocated to trade if you only put forward one or a limited number of dates when responding to an expression of interest to trade email, especially at peak times of the year or in highly saturated product categories. It stands to reason, the more unique your product, and/or the more dates you put forward, the more opportunity there will be trade.

Stall site numbers (i.e, position of your stall within the market's footprint) are advised to stallholders the week of trade.

A stall left vacant by the absence of a stallholder may be occupied (for that day only) by another stallholder.

Other

Stallholders are required to use the equipment as provided.

Applications to utilise additional display equipment should be included in your application. Stallholder equipment must not be exceedingly tall or bulky and when set up in the mall space it should not limit the line of sight to any neighbouring stalls' product or any of Southgate's permanent traders.

Before commencing trade at the Sunday Market at Southgate, stallholders must produce evidence of a valid Certificate of Currency (Insurance) for Public Liability and Product liability of not less than AUD$20 million. If you are a new stallholder and not trading commercially or at any other market, we suggest you wait until you are accepted before purchasing any insurance.
